

Illustrating mental health topics: from the headclutcher to the hopeful.

Sarah Chapman for Evidently Cochrane 24 February 2020

References and further reading

Chapman E. "Supporting children and young people's mental health: a call for change." Evidently Cochrane blog, 14 May 2019. Web. 20 February 2020.

<https://www.evidentlycochrane.net/mental-health-children-young-people/>

Chapman S. "Pineapples and stethoscopes. The problem with stock images." Evidently Cochrane blog, 31 August 2017. Web. 20 February 2020.

<https://www.evidentlycochrane.net/stock-images-health-evidence/>

Chapman S. "The power of the picture: opportunity and responsibility when illustrating mental health topics." Evidently Cochrane blog, 05 December 2019. Web. 20 February 2020.

<https://www.evidentlycochrane.net/illustrating-health-topics/>

Chapman S and Hendon J. "Illustrating mental health topics: how can we do this well? A Cochrane tweetchat". Evidently Cochrane blog, 04 February 2020. Web. 20 February 2020.

<https://www.evidentlycochrane.net/illustrating-mental-health-topics-tweetchat/>

Hendon J. "Picturing mental health: what sort of images are the right ones?" Evidently Cochrane blog, 07 February 2020. Web. 20 February 2020.

<https://www.evidentlycochrane.net/picturing-mental-health/>

Rienzi G. "Helping doctors connect with patients through art: new app encourages medical professionals to look at fine art and examine questions of empathy and observation". Johns Hopkins Magazine, Summer 2019. Web. 20 February 2020.

<https://hub.jhu.edu/magazine/2019/summer/bedside-education-art-medicine-patient-empathy/>

SANE Australia. Picture This: How Australians picture mental illness – survey results. South Melbourne, Victoria, Australia: SANE Australia; 2016. Available from:

https://www.sane.org/images/PDFs/2765_01_SANE_PictureThis_12-FINAL-WEB.pdf

Saraheknowles. "Stories To Save Your Life: Graphic Novels on Mental Health". Blog about Mental Health Research – Technology, Trials and Patient Public Involvement, 10 July 2014. Web. 20 February 2020.

<https://saraheknowles.wordpress.com/2014/07/10/stories-to-save-your-life/>

Turner-Uaandja H, McCorkle G, Brown L, Lynne S, Lyons M, Paulden P, Parsons S, Starling B, Involvement and Engagement Group Manchester Clinical Research Facility. "What research means to me" – using a photography competition to engage patients, public and researchers with the work of the Manchester Clinical Research Facility. Manchester: NIHR Manchester Clinical Research Facility; 2019. Available from:

<https://research.cmft.nhs.uk/wp-content/uploads/2019/08/Ref-061-What-research-means-to-me%C2%9D-%E2%80%9C-Using-a-photography-competition-to-engage-patients-1.pdf>